

Hello All the Soor Aur Saptak™ supporters, donors, well-wishers, ticket-buyers, volunteers:
A quick update on use of last year's proceeds -

Here's an informal update on the anesthesia machine for Pediatric Ophthalmology Center in Chandni. When I last wrote you a few months ago the GE unit had arrived from the US, was in the port, and was soon to be delivered to the hospital. Unfortunately on opening the crate they discovered it was damaged in transit. The good news is that the replacement unit is now installed and running. As per my earlier post, Seva and VMANN raised matching funds in order to get a top of the line machine. We are very pleased that this machine will enable the hospital to safely offer pediatric surgery and also serve those adults whose surgical procedure requires full anesthesia. We'll provide a fuller report once the unit has been in operation for a while and also get a patient story or two. Please share and cross-post on your Facebook, so your friends may know how their efforts and resources are being put to good cause and shaping young lives in India. I wanted to share this in the spirit full transparency. I will certainly have an update by the time we meet for the next year's program Feb. 20, 2016.
